When I look around what do I see?

I see mountains looming in the distance, snow capped.

I see 5 beautiful roommates whom I can laugh with, cry with, pray with and serve God with.

I see my neighborhood, the South Side, that is dangerous yet peaceful and inviting at the same time.

I see strangers who have opened up their hearts and homes and have given generously to 6 young volunteers.

I see a demanding job that challenges me to reach beyond what I know and who I am.

I see mothers who struggle to take care of themselves and their children.

I see children who are so innocent and yet know more pain and suffering than I will ever know.

I see new opportunities and amazing adventures.

I see a change to become the person I am destined to be.

I see God.
