

Majors and Degrees

The major normally consists of a group of courses in a single department, a number of which must be in the upper division. The specific courses, the number to be taken for the major, and the order in which they are to be taken are defined in the sections of this Bulletin devoted to departments and course descriptions, pages 124ff.

Single-Discipline Majors

Majors may be taken in the following fields, leading to a bachelor of arts or bachelor of arts in classics degree:

Art History	Mathematics Teaching
Classical Languages (Greek, Latin)	Modern Languages (French, German, or Spanish)
Communication	Philosophy
Economics	Physical Education and Exercise Science
Education	Physics
Early Childhood	Political Science
Middle Childhood	Religious Studies
Multi-Age	Sociology
English
History

Majors in the sciences may be taken in the following fields, leading to the bachelor of science degree:

Biology	Engineering Physics
Chemistry	Mathematics
Computer Information Systems	Physics
Computer Science	Psychology

Interdisciplinary Majors

Humanities - The humanities major is a self-designed liberal arts major, administered by the Department of Art History and Humanities. Coursework consisting of 33 hours above the B.A. Core divisional requirements is derived from the disciplines of art history, literature, history, religious studies and philosophy. For additional information on the major see pages 236-237. Coordinator: Dr. Leslie S. Curtis, Department of Art History and Humanities.

World Literature – An interdisciplinary major offered by the Department of Classical and Modern Languages and Cultures and the Department of English. Students should consult the chairperson of either department. The program of courses selected for the major must be approved by the dean.