A Message From the Coordinator

Friends of the CGLC:

Welcome to the first publication of the newsletter for the Center for Global Languages and Cultures (CGLC). Thanks to the generosity of various University partners, the CGLC was revitalized this summer and comprises four spaces in the O'Malley Center.

- OC 101 houses small collaboration tables, a computer lab and a whiteboard to complete academic work.
- OC 105 was redesigned as a quiet study and test-taking space,
- OC 139 was refurbished to not only be an academic library but also an informal social space that can be reserved by instructors and student organizations.
- OC 112 was redesigned as a Cultural Activities Center where the CGLC hosts various experiential learning and cultural enrichment activities.

I invite you to peruse this newsletter for highlights from our revitalization celebration held in September, upcoming language courses offered by the Classical and Modern Languages Department (CMLC) as well as upcoming events organized and or sponsored by the CGLC and CMLC.

If you would like a future event advertised in this newsletter or have ideas for a future feature piece, please feel free to contact CGLC staff at cglc@jcu.edu or myself at jnemiroff@jcu.edu.

Best wishes,

James Nemiroff Ph.D
Coordinator of Global Languages and Cultures
